Tenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

June 10, 2018

“With the Lord there is mercy and fullness of redemption!”

Most of the Gospel readings during Ordinary Time this year are taken from the Gospel of Saint Mark. Mark wrote his Gospel as a dramatic story with Jesus at the center. Jesus is always moving, inviting his disciples—and us—to follow. Mark wanted those who heard or read his Gospel to come to understand Jesus and recognize him as the Son of God. As is typical, Jesus moves quickly through a growing crowd in today’s Gospel, rebuking those who misunderstand his power, warning those who blaspheme against the Holy Spirit, and redefining their understanding of family.

Pastoral Reflection

Rooted in God

Today's readings are about faith and hope, virtues that are much needed in the world where people suffer the "demons" of poverty, racial inequality, or fear of anyone who is different from what is accepted as "normal." When our safety and security are threatened, we try to hold on desperately to what we have and what we know.

Jesus gave freedom to those oppressed by demons because he was rooted in the love of God. The Pharisees, not being as rooted in the love of God as Jesus was, were not able to bring freedom to those who were suffering. They sought safety in the law; it was familiar and tried. Jesus stepped outside those boundaries and turned to the indulgent love of God to be free the suffering.

We, like the Pharisees, are sometimes trapped by our fears and cannot think and act as Jesus did. In order to ask critical questions about why injustice exists, or to step outside of our comfort zone to try something different to alleviate suffering, we must be rooted in God. In today's Eucharist, let us pray for grace to be rooted in God so that we, like Jesus, can confront evil and bring freedom to those who suffer.

Do not be a “part-time” Christian, at certain moments, in certain circumstances, in certain choices. Be Christian at all times! The truth of Christ, that the Holy Spirit teaches us and gives us, always and forever involves our daily lives. Let us invoke the Spirit more often, to guide us on the path of Christ’s disciples.
